Adriana Rossi

CERN Senior Accelerator Beam Physicist

At CERN since 1998, I have worked in the Accelerator sector in the fields of vacuum, collimation, beam instrumentation and electron devices.

Currently project leader of the new AD electron cooler.

Member of the EPS-AG since 2020, I have contributed to the IPAC organisation (IPAC'23, '24 and '26 as SPC-MC chair and OC member).

Motivation: The open-source conference proceedings offered by JACoW is the base for knowledge sharing and advancing in accelerator science and technology across the world. I would be honoured to contribute to JACoW, making sure that collaboration amongst the different labs and university continues with adequate resources.
